President and Studio Director

Congratulations to Brigitte Fabi and our clients!

We are very proud of Brigitte Fabi, CMKBD, for receiving not one, but two, NKBA kitchen and bath design awards— a first for our firm. Whenever we win industry awards, we are reminded that our success starts with our clients. We thank our clients for their support and vision that inspires our entire team's efforts.

In the NKBA 2013 Design Competition Winners press release, President John K. Morgan said, "We take great pride in announcing to the public the topnotch kitchen and bath designers that our industry has to offer. Hundreds of entries are received every year, and our designer members continue to impress."

In more good news, the American Institute of Architects' quarterly survey shows that home renovations are outpacing new construction projects this year. With the housing recovery, homeowners are revisiting kitchen and bathroom projects that were previously put on hold. To meet this pent-up demand, we welcome three new members to the Drury Design team.

NKBA 2013 DESIGN COMPETITION "BEST BEFORE AND AFTER BATH AWARD"

Drury Design Honored with Two NKBA 2013 Design Contest Awards

The results are in! After judging over 400 kitchen and bath design projects from the U.S. and Canada, a panel of National Kitchen and Bath Association [NKBA] industry experts selected two Drury Design projects as winners. Brigitte Fabi, CMKBD [Certified Master Kitchen and Bath Designer] won two awards for Drury Design client projects. A luxurious, natural spa in Homer Glen, IL won the Best Before and After Bath Award at the competition. An Arts and Crafts kitchen in a Chicago loft inspired by Charles Rennie Mackintosh won the Third Place Award in the large kitchen design category, (see page 2). Since 1998, Drury Design has received over 50 NKBA kitchen and bath design awards. Founded by Gail Drury, CMKBD in 1987, Drury Design was also recently recognized as one of Trends Top 50 American design studios.

The winning bathroom design features a soothing, neutral color palette using only natural materials including slate tiles, a "rug" of pebbles, walnut cabinetry, a teak ceiling, and Caesarstone counters; all contribute to the calming environment. The private shower is the perfect place to recharge or unwind with six body jets, a stationary showerhead, large rain head, hand-held shower, and an integrated steam unit. An elegant soaking tub frames the view from a prominent picture window.

Transitional Kitchen Design in Chicago Loft Pays Homage to Arts and Crafts Pioneer Charles Rennie Mackintosh

From top to bottom, this kitchen reflects the homeowners' love of the Arts and Crafts era. Inspired by Charles Rennie Mackintosh, an Arts & Crafts pioneer often referenced as the European counterpart to Frank Lloyd Wright, it was important to be as historically accurate as possible while incorporating all of the modern conveniences needed today.

Classic Motawi tiles are the back drop for this Rennie MacIntosh inspired design. Up-to-date appliances and warm colors are the open invitation to cook in this open-concept kitchen. From the fully integrated refrigerator to the right of the oven, to the microwave drawer in the island, this space offers all the amenities for a world-class meal.
