Remodeling Springs Back in 2015

Good news for maybe someday remodelers!

If you've been considering a home remodeling project, there's no better time than now to get started.

According to the Residential Remodeling Index, 2015 is the year the remodeling market will spring back to full recovery.

Why are so many homeowners rushing to remodel? Two reasons: increasing consumer confidence and an improving job market.

What room would you like to remodel next: kitchen, master suite, entertainment center, office?

Your inspiration is here. Inside this issue, you'll find an eclectic collection of award-winning projects, including the NKBA's 2015 Best of Show.

2015 NKBA KBIS Best of Show Goes to Spicy Contemporary Chicago Kitchen

Inspired by world travels, America's most beautiful kitchen design lives in Chicago's Lincoln Park. Designed by Drury Design team member Brigitte Fabi, CMKBD, the kitchen's rich eclectic look realized the vision of world travelers who call Chicago home. The Moorish contemporary design was honored with two awards: Best of Show and first place in the large kitchen category at the 2015 National Kitchen and Bath Association (NKBA) Design Competition Awards during the Kitchen and Bath Industry Show (KBIS) in Las Vegas.

2014 ASID Double Awards

When we first meet our clients, our goal is to work side by side to create a space that is more beautiful, purposeful, and functional than we ever imagined.

We're delighted to announce that two of our client projects recently won prestigious 2014 American Society of Interior Design (ASID) Illinois Excellence Awards.

Gail Drury, NKBA CMKBD (Certified Master Kitchen and Bath Designer), and Ginny Blasco, ASID, of Ginny Blasco Design Studio in Chicago partnered on the winning projects, a multi-cook kitchen remodel in Burr Ridge and a rec room reimagined in Glen Ellyn.

ASID 2014 Interior Design Award Goes to Burr Ridge Kitchen Remodel

After making do with an undersized and underpowered 70s-style kitchen for 20 years, the clients wanted a better workflow, space for entertaining, modern features, professional appliances, and room for two cooks.

ASID 2014 Interior Design Award Goes to Rec Room Reimagined in Glen Ellyn

What once started as a 2,000-square-foot open and unfinished space, quickly turned into a contemporary lodge oasis, complete with a bar, an entertaining area, a game room, a music room, a storage center, and a full bathroom.

Rich Neutral Contemporary Kitchen Goes on Display

Recently revealed, our studio's newest display features a rich mix of neutral textures. Affordably elegant glossy and matte cabinetry complement each other. Glass adds gloss to door cabinets, ThinkGlass counters, and crystal pendants. Stainless steel adds sheen in the bridge cabinet, ovens, sink, faucets, and hardware. The warmth of the stained and glazed wood floor complemented by the textured matte porcelain backsplash gives another rich contrast.
